BABY'S BUSINESS

A healthy baby is comfortable; and that is enough for a baby. His business in life is to grow.

Aside from acute diseases, his food is the cause of most of his troubles. But Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil delivers him from it.

He isn't sick; only a little hunch, somewhere, in his machine for turning food into growth.

It is a great thing to do, for a baby, to help him over a hunch with mere food—the emulsion is food that has the tact to get there.

The tact to get there is medicine.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.

KUT YONG GOES BACK

Chinese Girl Not a Citizen of Hawaii.

NO REFERENCE TO ATTORNEYS

Judge Estee Renders Decision Holding That She Was Not Born Here.

Judge Estee rendered his decision yesterday afternoon in the case of the United States of America against Kut Yong, the Chinese girl who attempted to evade the exclusion act by a hasty marriage. The court ordered the deportation of the girl, and she was turned over to the United States marshal to be put aboard a Chinese ship.

Judge Estee, in passing upon the case, did not even refer to the marriage of the defendant in Honolulu, holding that the evidence failed to show her marriage with Tin Yee, or that he was a merchant within the meaning of the law; further, that the evidence failed to substantiate the claim that she was born in the Hawaiian Islands.

In referring to the case before reading his opinion, the court said: "While this is a comparatively usual and unimportant matter, yet by reason of the ability and learning of the distinguished counsel, the strife of one to keep her here, and of the other to send her back, nearly all the important parts of the exclusion act are raised."

The history of the case is still fresh in the minds of the public, coupled as it was with the sensational attempt of Attorney Fitch to outwit the law by the marriage of Kut Yong. The court first refers to the point raised by the defense as to the alleged birth of defendant in the Islands, stating that "if she were born in the Hawaiian Islands, as claimed, although of Chinese parentage, yet she would be an American citizen and entitled to remain."

Also, "If she were proven the wife of Tin Yee, and he were a domiciled Chinese merchant, she would be equally entitled to remain."

The court then calls attention to the great discrepancies in the evidence as to the birth of the child. All the witnesses for the defense, he said, were Chinese, and with the exception of possibly one, Hey Dong, are related to this defendant.

Continuing, the court says: "There is nothing clear or definite either as to the birth of a child known as Kut Yong in Palama at the time and under the circumstances testified to, and certainly nothing which is satisfactory as proving to the court that even if such a child had been born in the Islands under such circumstances, the defendant is such child grown to womanhood. So the reasons given for the identification of this young woman are absolutely unconvincing, and in their detail extraordinary. Ahin gives as his reason for knowing her after the lapse of so many years, 'because she is my relative.' The other alleged uncle, Chu Quon, 'because I worked in the same place with her father,' and Yong Wa Soy, still another alleged uncle, 'because I saw her in China; because she is my brother's daughter.'"

Tin Yee says he played with her as a child in Palama, and knew her by her appearance; while Kut Yong says, 'the first time I know this man was when he was in China; before he married me I did not know about him at all.'"

The facts are evident that the defendant is a Chinese woman. In speech and dress and mode of living she is thoroughly Chinese. While asserting a claim of birth in these Islands, and a marriage with Tin Yee, a man who cannot speak English, but who also claims to be a native of these Islands, she still 'calls China her home.'"

There are five witnesses who testify as to her birth in these Islands, but in an uncertain, indecisive and contradictory manner. All five of these witnesses are Chinese, and are all related to the defendant and interested in the issue of this proceeding.

It has been held that 'unless the court is fully satisfied with the truth of the testimony of Chinese witnesses, its finding should follow the presumption that a Chinese person coming from China, and seeking to land in this country is an alien, and not a native born citizen of this country.'"

Further on the court says: "The court therefore holds that the presumption in this case is that the defendant is an alien, and not a native born American, and that such presumption has not been overcome by the testimony adduced in her behalf."

"The second claim of defendant to remain, namely, that she is the wife of a domiciled merchant, is two-fold. In that it is necessary for her to prove affirmatively that the alleged husband, Tin Yee, is a merchant in the sense used in the statute, and second, that she is his wife. . . . Tin Yee nowhere clearly establishes in the testimony given in this proceeding that he was a merchant. On the contrary, the testimony clearly shows that he acted as manager of the rice plantation of the Sun Wo Wing Company, and as he testified, 'worked on its plantation and took charge of its business.'"

In conclusion the court holds: All the evidence in relation to the so-called marriage of Tin Yee and the defendant is a tissue of contradictions and suspicious circumstances. The date of the marriage is uncertain and vague; even the chief parties in interest differing as to the time. Hoy Sung, a particular friend of Tin Yee, testified that he went to China with him 'two years ago, and was there when he was married; while Tin Yee himself says he was married four years ago, the defendant says it is over three years ago since she was married.'"

Tin Yee says after marrying his wife he lived with her seven months; she says he lived with her five months, when he returned to the Hawaiian Islands, leaving the wife in China. Ahin, the alleged uncle, brought the woman here on the Doric, when he returned to the Islands after a visit to China. He took charge of her and paid her fare. The husband, Tin Yee, testified he did not know the amount it cost to bring his wife here. The lack of interest displayed by the alleged husband in the welfare of his wife, seems to be equalled only by the wife's apathy in regard to him, as she said she preferred to live in her uncle's house, rather than with her husband. Indeed, there is nothing in the evidence which tends to convince the court of the truth of this marriage or that the woman is the wife of Tin Yee. I am therefore of the opinion that she is not his wife, and shall so hold. As to the exclusion of Chinese, this Territory has now neither a law nor an exclusion policy of its own. The laws of Congress prevail. And while it is true the United States has always welcomed foreigners to its shores, yet the foreigners so welcomed have always been those who assimilated with and became a part of our people.

This nation has never favored the immigration of people who will not make citizens. It is American citizenship, and not laborers for America, which our laws most encourage; but Chinese are a very inferior material out of which to make American citizens. A man to be a good American citizen must be capable of studying our laws, speaking our language, and adopting our customs. The United States, in common with many other peoples, have taken long steps towards keeping Chinese laborers out of our country. And to that end the treaties with China, the statutes of the United States, passed in conformity to those treaties and the decisions of the courts are a unit against the admission of Chinese laborers, and this action by this nation is prompted by the highest principles of self preservation.

Having failed to prove her birth in these Islands, or her marriage to a domiciled Chinese merchant therein, or to an American citizen, to the satisfaction of the court, it is the judgment of the court that Kut Yong is unlawfully within the United States and the District of Hawaii, and is hereby remanded to the custody of the marshal, with directions to deport her to the country from whence she came.

ESTEE, Judge.

July 22, 1901.

Attorney Stewart was given leave to file exceptions to the ruling and judgment.

AGE NO BAR.

It Does Not Enter Into the Question You may have it and not know it. You may be young; you may be old. Symptoms the same in both.

A babe with weak kidneys has backache.

A man of 60 or 80 with weak kidneys has backache.

That's the way it talks with all ages. Doan's Backache Kidney Pills cure the babe and the man.

That's the way they do in all ages. No wonder, though, they're made for it.

They couldn't cure a simple case of colic.

But they cure bad cases of kidney trouble.

If your back aches, try them.

Writing under date January 10th, 1899, Jurgen Walter of this city tells us as follows: "My age is 73—well past the ordinary span of life, and I am the parent of eight children. Being so far advanced in years, I regard the relief obtained from Doan's Backache Kidney Pills.

I suffered from a lame back for years, but after taking some of the pills (procured at Hollister's drug store) was greatly benefited, and I am satisfied the pills did me much good."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are becoming popular in Honolulu because they are always endorsed by Honolulu people.

Our kidneys filter our blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily; when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disordered eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all chemists and storekeepers at 50 cents per box, or will be mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

The cars on Pacific Heights Electric Railway will start from Nuuanu avenue station, connecting with all tramway cars, daily. Take a ride and enjoy the cooling breeze and magnificent view.
